

Complete Feedback for Improved Performance

How would you like a feedback tool that delivers definitive results?

Do you need to match your 360 to your organization's performance objectives? Are you looking for a quick and easy 360 process that really works?

If so, Forté is your solution!

What is it?

The Forté i360 is a process in which a person receives both quantitative and qualitative performance feedback. The people who provide feedback are called raters and can include direct reports, peers, internal or external customers and the person's leader.

The i360 is used to develop competencies for each person in an organization. You can use our default 8-competencies or modify to fit your own needs. The report is completely customizable.

The report contains

- Competency Profile radar charts that depict how a person rates themselves against specific competencies, versus how others rate them. This is useful in easily spotting gaps in their own perception and the perceptions of others.
- Highly detail analysis and a clear, concise process to put suggestions into actions!

- Executive summary and a full detailed report of the results from each rater including the manager.
- Outline of Skills to Reinforce.
- Outline of Skills to Develop.
- List of Focus Competencies to develop.
- A clear, concise process to put suggestions into actions!

Business Benefits

- Because 360 results capitalize on multiple perspectives they are considered to be highly credible and useful performance feedback. Research shows that because managers recognize the feedback is fair, balanced and based on the actual work place, the data has high face validity and is accepted more easily.
- Uniquely, the Forté i360 focuses on Strengths therefore is more positively received and encouraging of effective improvement.
- HR managers believe that the most effective means of addressing staff retention is to improve the people management skills of line managers *
- Improved manager performance will result in an improved overall performance of your organization by meeting and exceeding those key indicators that make the difference between average and outstanding managers and their teams.

*CIPD 2010 Annual Survey

Forté is an impactful, highly accurate communication style profile, used globally at all levels and sizes of organizations and validated for over 30 years. To date over 6 million Forté profiles have been completed.

"Very interesting and certainly an excellent foundation for a way forward"
HR & Training Manager, Financial Services

US Phone 910.452.5152 : Fax 910.452.4339

EU Phone 353.22.20923 : Fax 353.22.43517